Japan Is Warned War Will Follow Attack on Soviet

Litvinoff Says Japs Attack While Still Talking of Peace

ARE "TIRED OF IT" Meanwhile, Japs Are Reported Trying to Split Off South China

CANTON, China.—(AP)—Thirty were killed and 40 wounded Monday when Japanese warplanes dropped two bombs in the crowded square in front of the Catholic cathedral here.

Soviet Warns Japan

MOSCOW, Japan.—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet ambassador of foreign affairs, has warned Japan that the Soviet government will continue to repulse all Japanese attacks with "the most vigorous measures including artillery and aircraft."

The commission's warning was contained in a three-hour conversation with the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, Sunday shortly after a Soviet army statement announced Russian troops had driven Japanese from Siberian territory along the Korean border at Changkufeng.

Litvinoff answered the ambassador's new peace proposals by calling his attention to new border incidents in the area since Shigemitsu first presented suggestions August 4.

Litvinoff's warning was prompted by a new border clash 250 miles north of Changkufeng, at Hill 588.2, near Suifeng where the Japanese Manchurian railway crosses into Soviet territory.

A Japanese detachment with machine guns, he said, attacked and wounded several Red soldiers and then withdrew. Moscow is tired of making another protest for each new frontier incident, Litvinoff intimated.

"The time has come to terminate these endless 'incidents,'" he said. "The time has come, he added, for the Soviet government to declare it 'does not intend to let its Soviet border guards be attacked with impunity nor permit even a temporary seizure of its territory by Japanese troops.'"

Attempt to Split China?

SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Chinese sources reported Monday that secret negotiations had been exposed by which separatists were plotting an independent South China government pledged to close co-operation with Japan.

There was no confirmation of the report in neutral sources. It long has been known that Japan was attempting to sway South China away from the Central government with tactics in Canton similar to those used in Manchuria and Peiping.

Japan, the Chinese declared, was holding out a promise that organization of a co-operative new government would prevent spread of the war to

CHAPTER I

Kenworthy & Kenworthy, Attorneys-at-Law, Winstock, Connecticut, Aug. 8, 1938.

Dear Sir:

This letter will notify you that under the terms of the last will and testament of the late Mrs. Martha Preston of Winstock, Connecticut, you have been named joint residuary legatee of her estate to share a one-half interest.

At this time I think I may safely say that the residuary estate, after all expenses and specific bequests have been paid, will consist of your late aunt's home in Winstock.

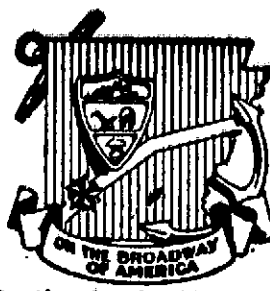

Kindly communicate with this office at your earliest convenience. Very truly yours, Caleb John Kenworthy, Executor.

For a moment Mr. Kinkaid (Kinks) Parker stared woodenly at the letter. Then he emitted a feeble bleat, tottered to a chair and sank into it. And the world began to go around like a pinwheel.

From the welter of confusion that up until two minutes ago had been Kinks Parker's mind two facts stood out sharply: (a) his maternal aunt, Mrs. Martha Preston, was dead and (b) she had

Row Over Presidential Endorsement Also Heard on Eleventh Hour

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A dispute over what constituted a presidential endorsement developed between two Arkansas senatorial candidates Monday on the eve of the biennial Democratic primary election.

Senator Hattie W. Caraway's headquarters claimed Roosevelt favor in her drive for renomination. Representative John L. McClellan said the president had made no endorsement in the Arkansas campaign.

World War Hero J. Ross Venable, the third candidate, did not participate in the controversy. The basis of Mrs. Caraway's contention was Mr. Roosevelt's reference to her as a "very old friend of mine" during his Arkansas stop on the July transcontinental tour.

Venable announced in Little Rock Monday morning that he was sending the following telegram to Chairman Sheppard of the senate campaign expenditure committee:

"Observing primary election here Tuesday. Current rumors are prevalent of gross falsifying election returns Tuesday. Suggest investigation might clarify situation in Arkansas."

Withhold Report. WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee decided to issue no statement on the Arkansas democratic primary prior to Tuesday's balloting.

Chairman Sheppard said in his opinion and that of Senator Harrison of Mississippi, the only other committee member in Washington, that investigator's preliminary report on charges of irregularities in soliciting campaign funds did not justify action at this time.

The investigation will be continued and a report will be made to the committee at its meeting either Saturday or next Monday, he said.

Senator Caraway reported to the committee Monday that she received contributions of $6,150 up to August 4 in her campaign for renomination.

Congressman McClellan, previously charged in a complaint to the committee that the woman senator was

The timing of the report left little doubt that the survey was the president's call of the nation's "No. 1 economic problem" was strategically important to the administration's campaign to win over the entire South to Roosevelt policies.

Negroes Are Held for Circuit Court

Carlton Todd and Milas Hawkins Waive Examination in Court Here

Carlton Todd and Milas Hawkins, negroes who were captured soon after robbing the Henry Watkins home last week, waived preliminary examination on burglary charges in municipal court here Monday and were ordered held for action of circuit court. Bond for each was set at $750.

The two negroes fled from the Watkins home when Mrs. Watkins awakened and escaped in a small car they had parked near the scene of the robbery. The negroes were overtaken three miles northeast of Hope by Postmaster William Robins and John Turner. All of the loot was recovered.

Results of other cases: The case of Robert Johnson, charged with petit larceny in connection with an alleged theft of a .44 calibre pistol from William Abbott, was tried and then dismissed.

Earl Bingham, carrying a pistol, forfeited $50 cash bond. C. J. Smith and Robert White each forfeited $10 cash bond on charges of drunkenness. Jim Harris pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was fined $10.

Hilton Blake and Thomas Williams each pleaded guilty to possession of untaxed liquor and were fined $25 each.

Sid Jones pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was fined $10. A charge of unlawful possession of untaxed liquor against Charles Graham was dismissed.

Local Campaign Is Closed by Rally at Oglesby School

Hempstead County Stump Tour Winds Up in Hope Monday

A CLEAN CAMPAIGN

In Washington on Saturday, and in Hope All Day Monday

By J. T. BOWDEN, Jr.

What many local observers term "one of the cleanest local campaigns in history" came to a close with an all-day speaking on the grounds of Oglesby school here Monday. There was no mud slinging whatsoever among the county candidates, or those for state senate. And only once in this county did the two seekers for the prosecu-

The meeting in Hope came to order at 9 a. m. with Wayne England presiding as chairman. James Pilkinton, young local attorney, was the first to speak in his behalf as a candidate for the state senate from the ninth district. His only opponent, W. F. Reagan or Glenwood, Pike county, was not present. Mr. Reagan announced in Washington Saturday that he would close his campaign at his home town on Monday.

Besides the aspirants for district, county and township offices who followed on the program with their respective pleas one of the major contenders for the governor's chair was present. Judge R. A. (Bob) Cook spoke to the crowd in mid afternoon. Another state candidate present was Lest-er Booker, of Washington, this county, who spoke in his behalf as a candidate for state land commissioner.

J. G. Ragdale, El Dorado attorney, appeared in behalf of Senator Hattie Caraway who is seeking re-election. Ragdale came to Hope from Prescott where he spoke earlier in the day.

Nelson Withdraws. W. B. Nelson, farmer living near Washington, made a statement to a Star reporter Saturday to the effect that he was out of the representatives race in this county.

Mr. Nelson was one of the first to announce for this office but had made no active campaign. He had not been at any of the stump meetings until Saturday.

"Due to a serious stomach ailment," said Mr. Nelson, "I did not think it advisable to make this campaign. The traveling and excitement would probably have made my condition much worse."

"I wrote Mr. Atkins (W. S. Atkins, chairman of the county central committee) last week and asked him to leave my name off the ballot."

Saturday in Washington. The second week of the Hempstead county stump tour ended Saturday in Washington. The meeting was held on the courthouse grounds. William H. Etter, editor of the Washington Telegraph, acted as chairman.

W. F. Reagan, candidate for the state senate seat was the first to speak. He was followed by his only opponent James Pilkinton.

The two candidates for tax assessor were next. They were followed by the three men seeking the county clerk's office.

Four representative aspirants spoke before the noon recess. They were: Talbot Peild, Jr., Hugh D. Clark, J. A. Sullivan and John P. Vesey.

Immediately after dinner Sheriff Jim Bearden made a short "thank you" speech.

Two candidates for road overseer of Ozan township then appeared. Lanny Beck was first to speak and emphasized that he was a capable man when it came to the repairing and building of bridges.

Joe Fincher, the other entrant, stated

Judge Cook Closes His State Campaign With Hope Address

"Not Interested in Politics? But You've Got to be!"—W. V. Tompkins Introduces Him; W. F. Denman, J. D. Head Speak for Him

"Many men who used to tell me he wasn't interested in politics, now that the roof over his head is mortgaged with a public debt one-third of its value, realizes that today he has got to be interested in politics, R. A. (Bob) Cook, candidate for governor told the final Hempstead county political rally on Oglesby school grounds in Hope Monday afternoon.

"Two years ago," said Judge Cook, "I made a campaign for governor personally, without organization, and without making a promise to any living man. Nor will I ever do so."

"All I can pledge is that I will do my level best for all of you, and no honest man can guarantee more. If you want promises, go to Carl Bailey—he'll promise you the dome off the state capitol if you'll promise to vote for him."

"And a man who will buy you with promises today will sell you tomorrow."

"And a man who will make a campaign on money assessed from state employees will have to keep them on the public payroll whether they are giving the public good service or not."

His Home People. "I come to you with the faith and backing of the people of the place where I live. Carl Bailey can't speak with the same certainty. Last election I carried the ward and the box where Carl lives in Little Rock—and in Augusta, Woodruff county, which Bailey claims as his early home, I carried the vote by two to one. All these people know him."

"Now the state, too, has found him out—and I shall win tomorrow by 50,000 to 70,000 votes."

"Bailey is known as a man who won't fight openly. He hides behind his yellow sheets—circulars that are distributed by boys and young men while Bailey stalks in the background. One of his sheets is called Good Government, and the other is called the Cook Book. He writes his own ticket when he has to use my name to get folks to read his literature."

Steve Carrigan of Hope presided. W. V. Tompkins.

Judge Cook was introduced by W. V. Tompkins of Prescott, law partner of the late Governor Thomas C. McRae. Mr. Tompkins said:

"You remember three of Arkansas' most distinguished governors. There was Governor Eagle. He wasn't a lawyer—but it wouldn't have hurt had he been one. But Governor Eagle was a successful farmer who, placed in the governor's office, managed the state's business equally as successfully as he had managed his own."

"Then there was Governor Donaghey. Governor Donaghey wasn't a lawyer—but it wouldn't have hurt had he been one. But Governor Donaghey was a successful business man, and on taking charge of the state he managed the state's business as well as he had managed his own."

"And finally there was Governor McRae. Governor McRae did happen to be a lawyer, but it's a fact that for the last 30 years of his life he was more of a business man than a practitioner of law—and he took into the state government the same business-like qualities that had served him in private life."

"And I, who have never been able to understand how the people could expect a man to manage the state's business unless he had first proved that he could manage his own business, am introducing to you as a candidate for governor Judge Cook, one of the best private business men in Arkansas, who has, in addition, the record of having rescued Pulaski county from bankruptcy during his service as county judge there."

J. D. Head, Texarkana. Preceding Mr. Tompkins, James D. Head of Texarkana, famed attorney and past chairman of the Democratic State Committee, spoke also in Cook's behalf. Mr. Head charged Governor Bailey with having "ruined the south Miller county oil and gas field by meddling with the State Conservation Board."

"As a result," Mr. Head said, "the gas that lifts the oil out of the well has been depleted in one of the greatest potential oil and gas fields in this section."

"The governor's forces have unleashed the greatest campaign fund ever seen to win this election—but tomorrow you will see the glad spectacle of the voters returning their government to the hands of the people."

William F. Denman, Prescott attorney and law partner of the late Huey P. Long of Louisiana, told the crowd.

"Bailey fooled Nevada county in the past—but we have found him out. He is making promises, but promises this time won't do him any good. All Bailey has promised us in Nevada county is about 5 million dollars' worth of take away from you and give it to us in Nevada county."

Heads of neighboring county delegations reported Judge Cook would carry those counties Tuesday. Those reporting were:

Balmer V. Vick of Howard county. J. W. Patton of LaFayette.

Forecast for 1938 11,988,000 Bales, Estimate Monday

Compares With 18,946,000 Bales Last Year—Acre-Yield Down

ARKANSAS REPORT

State's Yield Estimated to Be 1,247,000 Bales This Year

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture forecast Monday a 1938 cotton crop of 11,988,000 bales. The estimate was based on the condition of the crop August 1, which was 78.0 per cent of normal, and on the area in cultivation July 1, less the 10, year average acre abandonment, which was estimated at 26,847,000 acres.

The condition of the crop indicates an acre-yield of 217.9 pounds, compared with 266.9 pounds last year, and 197.8 pounds as the 1927-36 average. The crop totaled 18,946,000 bales last year.

The condition of the Arkansas crop August 1 was 81 per cent of normal, with an indicated acre-yield of 245 pounds and a indicated total production of 1,247,000 bales.

Market Declines. NEW YORK.—(AP)—The government forecast predicting a cotton crop of 700,000 bales above what the trade had expected brought a heavy liquidation in the staple Monday.

Losses at one time were as much as 11.70 a bale but support appeared near the close. Final prices were 60 cents to $1 a bale net lower.

George Dodds Asks for Road Overseer Post in Election on Tuesday

The name of George F. Dodds, for road overseer of DeRoan township, appears today in The Star's political column.

Mr. Dodds has been a resident of DeRoan township the past 20 years and has always been a voter in Democratic primary elections.

Mr. Dodds feels that he is qualified to hold the position he seeks, and if elected he said he would do all in his power to keep school bus and mail routes in good condition.

"I am not being run y anyone or any group—and will not be obligated except to all the people alike. I will sincerely appreciate the vote and support of my friends in this race," Mr. Dodds said.

The Law Won't "Stick" of Its Own Accord

WE HATCH out a great many learned studies of crime, in this county—which is fair enough, because we have so much crime to be studied.

Some of these studies are profound and humorless enough to win their authors degrees as doctors of philosophy, and some of them are a bit lighter and sketchier; but practically all of them, if they are really worth anything, should begin and end with our failure to get strict, impartial enforcement of the laws we have.

Now and then a case bobs up which illustrates the matter perfectly.

THE other day a notorious Ohio gangster was finally given a life sentence for murder. He was one of those typical crooks who have "a record as long as your arm"; yet the odd thing about his record was the fact that he had spent very little time behind the bars—although for 14 years he had clearly been a dangerous sort of character.

In 1924 he was arrested for violating the auto law, fined $50 and sentenced to three months in jail. The jail sentence and $25 of the fine were immediately suspended.

The next year he was twice arrested for carrying concealed weapons. Each time the grand jury refused to vote an indictment.

In the following year he was again arrested for carrying concealed weapons, and once more the grand jury refused to indict him.

A little more than a year later he was arrested on a charge of robbery. The case "fell through" in police court and he was freed. Later that year he was fined $50 and given three months as a suspicious person; the case was appealed, and the records fail to show that any further disposition was ever made of it.

The following year he was brought in on the same two charges. Once again the robbery charge collapsed in police court, and the police prosecutor threw out the suspicious person charge. Six months later he was again arraigned as a suspicious person, and again the police prosecutor no-papered the case.

AFTER another year, his city put another prosecuting attorney into office. This official dug up those old concealed weapons charges, brought the man to trial, and sent him to prison. But he got paroled by executive order of the governor, slightly more than two years later, and went free again—to commit a murder, finally, and start on the path that now has him headed for prison for life.

That record draws its own moral. Here was a man who for 14 years was obviously a dangerous criminal. In one way or another, the law was too lax to do more than make a formal notation of the fact. Is it any wonder that a country which commonly treats its professional thugs that way has a lot of them?

Don't Be Frightened

SOMETIMES it's really not worth while at all to try to look too closely at the future—even the immediate future, when that appears to be clear as crystal. The risk you run of becoming desperate is too high, and as often as not what appears to be clear as crystal isn't so at all.

Particularly is this so in the matter of women's styles. What seems to be the logical conclusion of a trend almost never pans out that way. And many wise people who don't take stock in crystal-gazing are banking on that habit secretly, just now.

For that trend toward the evening gown in nightdresses and that trend toward the nightdress in evening gowns appear to be holding their own, according to word from the fashion previews, and on top of it come pajamas that look, not like pajamas, but like evening gowns that look like nightdresses.

From here it looks as if the next step would be to have evening gowns that look exactly like pajamas. That don't look at all like evening gowns, and that would be the final step to plunge the slow-witted male into a confusion from which he might never emerge. The social blunders inherent in such a situation are too appalling to think about.

The Veterinaries' Activities Are Important to Human Health

Just as scientific medicine is learning today that it is impossible to separate the human being from his heredity and environment, so also we learn that animals which live with man and on which man lives are extremely important in relationship to human health.

Such diseases as undulant fever, typhoid, plague, malaria, hookworm, and other infestations of man are examples of conditions in animals which may be communicated to the human being.

In the study of animals and animal diseases, the veterinary of today is a medical specialist. A good modern education for a veterinary includes high school graduation, at least one year of college education, and four years of education in a veterinary medical school before he is equipped to practice.

Many veterinarians then enter the service of the government in the Bureau of Animal Industry or of the various states. In such a position they aid human beings by inspecting animals which are used for food or which provide food materials.

Today the veterinary is a specialist not only in certain types of animals, but also in certain types of diseases as they affect animals.

The veterinary profession seems to be divided into two groups—one which is the inspecting group associated with the function of disease prevention that has already been mentioned, and the other a highly specialized profession which is concerned with the care of small animals kept largely as pets.

These latter practitioners are in many instances associated with hospitals for the care of pets, and many of them practice veterinary medicine exactly as it is practiced by the leading specialists in the human medical field.

The modern veterinary makes on the sick dog or cat all of the same tests that are used by the physician in making diagnoses of diseases in human beings. The X-ray is used. There are tests of the blood and of the urine and all of the other secretions and excretions of the body. Such services are expensive, but the owner of a race horse, representing a cash investment of tens of thousands of dollars, or the proud owner of a prize Pekinese, will not hesitate to pay what is necessary to secure individualized specialistic attention for the sick pet.

Indeed, the veterinary will insist on individualization of his patient for treatment, exactly as the modern physician insists on individualization of his patient in order to secure the best possible results.

He Sees Proof of Immortality—Writer Feels Science Presupposes It

A few years ago a clever Englishman with a flair for combining deep-dish mathematics, metaphysics and sprightly humor all in one package came out quietly with a new theory of time.

"Quietly" is apparently the word, because the general reading public hardly heard the man. But some of the general public's favorite authors did. Among them was J. B. Priestley. His most recent book was to a very large degree inspired and conditioned by the clever Englishman's theory.

Not to keep you in suspense any longer—the Englishman in question is J. W. Dunne, and he is out now with a new book, "The Serial Universe" (Macmillan; $2), which amplifies and extends his theory.

Now Mr. Dunne is no man to hesitate at biting off a large mouthful. In this book he goes back to his previous discussions of fourth- and fifth-dimension time, proceeds to demonstrate—by an involved, technical and completely baffling mathematical process which left this reviewer lashed to the mast—that science itself is based on the supposition that there is an immortal mind which exists independently of mundane time and space limitations. He then asserts that what he offers is an irrefutable proof of the immortality of the human soul.

If all of this is a larger order, understanding Mr. Dunne's argument is, for the lay reader, apt to be even larger. This reviewer made extremely heavy weather of it. Yet he found the book immensely exciting. If Mr.

RAISING A FAMILY

By Olive Roberts Barton

Responsibility Is Good For A Child

It would be a lovely life, we think, just to lie about and have nothing to do. How perfect to wake to a day of relaxed drifting.

This is the still, silent wish deeply imbedded in every human heart. I believe that laziness is natural to man.

But let's put the real facts on the slide for observation. Work is necessary. From the day that the first man had to hustle up a tree to keep from being devoured by one of the early monsters, he knew that effort was needed for life. And of course there was food to rustle and shelter to provide.

There's born in every person, I am sure, the inherited conflicts between need, meaning work, and his natural preference for leisure, said leisure being a throw-back to pre-natal influence.

Do you see then, mother dear, what a real battle it is to learn to work and like it?

The little child certainly does not want to loaf and dream, and is normally as busy with his affairs as a dancing mouse, but hark to this, please. His impulse is only to do what the moment brings to mind. He avoids the coercion of time or duty.

Parents and instructors make the most of this "interest" attitude and divert it into responsibility channels. This is wise and necessary. However, as childhood advances, there comes a time when there can be no blend between wanting to do and having to do. Every child must learn that there are tasks that must be done because they have to be done and for no other reason.

Children of all ages and kinds should be given the makings of responsibility early. By "given" I mean opportunities created to instill from the start the habit of striving. School is not enough. It sets aside too many other things when accepted as a sole responsibility. Each child should learn to help self, help family and help others.

I must repeat again the fact that children need much play time and also free time to be themselves; but the bitter tea of life is not all sugared. The earlier a youngster learns to like the taste of the mixed brew, the more he will relish its tang.

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

What a Life! The Faster It Rolls in The Faster It Rolls Out

(Bill Porter, who conducts "Movie Scrapbook" for NEA Service newspapers, is writing the Hollywood column while Paul Harrison is on vacation.)

By BILL PORTER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD.—When things get tough and you wish you were an actor or actress making $500 or more a week, you might console yourself by meditating on the cost of being in the movies.

At lunch the other day, Vernon D. Wood, business manager for some 50 players and stars, pointed out that even the well-managed actor has a tough problem. Take a $500-a-week player as an example, because there are more of them.

First of all, a $500-a-week player is always publicized as making $750. And since he is striving to get ahead and make an impression on Hollywood he must live up to that amount. Actually, when he gets his check it is for only $485, after the studio has made deductions for old age pension and compensation insurance. Then his agent collects 10 per cent. The business manager gets a cut, too, but he usually earns it by investments.

A modest figure for rent is $100 per month, but it sometimes runs as high as $400, because a player must have a home large enough for entertaining. Food costs another $100 for the same reason. Actors have a mania for long distance phone calls, and these run their utilities up to $50 monthly.

Medicine, beverages, and other such household "necessities" account for another $75, and of course the latest best sellers and magazines must always be lying around, at a cost of $15 per month. Florists and beauty parlors come in for $40 each, and the doctor's take is $25. Memberships and miscellaneous contributions come up to $25, and publicity stunts average $25 monthly.

An automobile is necessary and it should be paid for. That means a monthly car payment of $40, and another $30 for maintenance, insurance and desive, but the owner of a race horse, representing a cash investment of tens of thousands of dollars, or the proud owner of a prize Pekinese, will not hesitate to pay what is necessary to secure individualized specialistic attention for the sick pet.

Indeed, the veterinary will insist on individualization of his patient for treatment, exactly as the modern physician insists on individualization of his patient in order to secure the best possible results.

preciation. To the rising player, wardrobe is a big item. Men must provide their own clothes for pictures, and women must be expensively dressed in public. The cost is about $400 per month, with another $30 for the cleaner.

A smart player has no more than two servants. One to take care of the home, and a maid or valet who also works with them at the studio. Together these cost $150 a month.

Two of the biggest bugaboos are family and taxes. The family usually figures it should be cut in on a little gravy, say $200 a month, and since that isn't an organized charity it can't be deducted from the income tax which the federal government imposes in the amount of $200 per month. That state tax is $50, and the unemployment tax $40.

Family and taxes alone are enough to warrant a player's having a business manager. The average unmanaged player never figures ahead, and is caught short at tax time.

Personal expenses run around $100 gets $50, and the fan mail $20 a month. Betty Davis, one of Mr. Wood's smartest clients in the upper brackets, recently asked Wood to cut her personal allowance from $100 to $80 per month because she couldn't spend it all. But she's unusual.

All these expenses add up to $1910 per month, and are typical of the burdens of such youngsters as John Howard, Betty Grable, Bob Cummings, Mary Carlisle, Olympe Bradna, Eleanor Whitney, and Anthony Quinn.

And foreign players are in a tougher spot. Merle Oberon, who recently returned from England to star in "The Lady and the Cowboy," will average $220,000 a year for the next four years.

She is a citizen of England, but works on a split contract between Alexander Korda and Samuel Goldwyn. Consequently, both Uncle Sam and John Bull nick her for taxes.

The combined taxes in her bracket amount to 73 per cent of her salary, and her agent gets a cut of 10 per cent. That leaves Miss Oberon with $37,400 per year, out of which her unavoidable expenses must be paid in the amount of about $25,000.

But don't let me discourage you.

Swinging Sweetly on Harmonica Built for Two

Only a couple of Joe E. Browns could do justice to the harmonica on which the two lovelies—Paula Patton, left, and Mercedes Sana—try out a few swing notes at the Music Industries Trade Show in Chicago. The 320-note harmonica was shown with $2,000,000 worth of instruments at the show. Three thousand music dealers attended.

Democratic Central Committee of Arkansas County
Paid Political Adv.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

By WALTER SORRELLS
Editor, Pine Bluff Commercial
(Friday, August 5, 1938)

The people of Arkansas have been treated to an unprecedented political spectacle in the gubernatorial campaign.

Almost a complete reversal in sentiment is the result.

Both candidates have made their bid for votes in Jefferson county, and the man, Governor Bailey, who six months ago could not have polled a hatful of votes, is being conceded the election by non-partisan observers.

There have been many attempted explanations of Governor Bailey's comeback, and one explanation is just about as good as another but one only has to recall the trend of thought since the defeat of Herbert Hoover to arrive at an accurate analysis. The people want something done even if mistakes are made.

Judge Cook, in our humble opinion has made the same mistake that Woodrow Wilson made when he crossed the ocean. Europe considered him an inspired man until they saw that he was just a human being with human emotions and human frailties.

Judge Cook, conceding that he is sincere, and we believe he is, made the mistake of being seen and heard after he had been pictured and labeled as some kind of a savior. But after all he proved to be just an ambitious man, eager to be elected Governor although offering no excuse except the mistakes, actual and fantastic and dummed-up, of his opponent. And disappointing even to his closest followers.

In fact, Judge Cook, in general terms, has promised if elected, to cut expenses and do nothing. And the people have taken him at his word. But that's not what they want in this day and age. Hoover and Landon promised the same thing.

People want action.

They want service from their Government, federal and state, and they are not yet ready to return to a "Do-nothing policy."

They are even willing to pardon mistakes if they are made in progressive campaign to put dollars to work for which the taxpayers intended.

This reversal of sentiment is not occasioned by any undue fondness for Governor Bailey but on the contrary it is the result of two conflicting theories of government.

One theory being that the government, the tax dollar was intended to be used in service for the taxpayers, and the other is that tax dollars should be hoarded and functions of government intended and designed to serve curtailed.

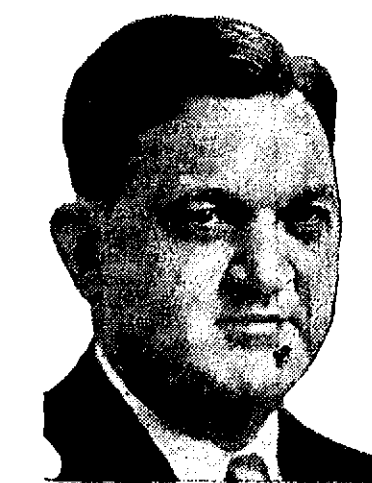

It is upon these two sharply divided philosophies of government that the people of Arkansas are passing upon and not, for the time in many years, personalities.

And so the issue is whether something shall be done—something attempted, mistakes and all, or whether the policy of "do-nothing" shall prevail.

It is a remarkable campaign and that the people want action, that they want something done, is no reflection on Judge Cook or any of the goodcitizens who are supporting him that the people of Arkansas have rejected his theories of government.

Judge Cook and his friends have merely misjudged the trend of the times.

Beauty Representative to Be Here This Week

Mrs. Odessa Norman, representative of the Dorothy Perkins preparations, will be at the John P. Cox drugstore all this week conducting special consultations upon the care of the skin and the proper preparations to use in correcting blemishes.

Mrs. Norman is no stranger to the people of Hope as she has visited here on several occasions in the interest of the company she represents.

Mrs. Norman invites the women of Hope to visit her in the toiletries department of the Cox drugstore this week.

Indians Object to the Phony Indians

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(AP)—After the appearance of white men dressed as Indians in Milwaukee's Midsummer Festival Harold Wilde, representing the festival, received a protest from Francis Coleman, Chippewa Indian Recorder for the Consolidated Tribes of North American Indians, in this city.

"Ugh," Coleman wrote, "Milwaukeeans get disgusted when we witness the sorry spectacle of white men trying to imitate us in our ceremonial dances. It can't be done and the summer that is realized the better it will be for future pageants."

Wilde replied that the pageant commission would consider using real Indians instead of palefaces in the future.

Japs Bite Dust Before Shellburst Fury

Japanese warriors hit the dirt all together, as shown in the dramatic photo above, when a Chinese shell burst in line of their advance in the Wu Chu district, the smoke of the blast pluming up to resemble a great tree. Although the village was destroyed as Japan's Nambu Engineers approached, the Chinese, supported by heavy artillery, continued to hold their defense lines.

Indoors... Outdoors... Wash-day... Birthday... family history is being made.

NOT long ago a young friend of mine married. He is a camera fan, like the rest of us, and he told me:

"My family history is going to be kept in pictures. I plan to take at least one roll of pictures a week—many more whenever possible. Whenever we do anything—move to a new house—go on a week-end trip—plant flowers—celebrate a birthday or an anniversary—add a new member—whatever it is, the story will be told in pictures."

His plans go further than that, too. His picture record is to be kept in handy, useful form. "There will be a new picture book for every year," he told me. "I plan to have the best shots enlarged, and mount the others contact size. Everything goes into the book, where we'll always be able to find it and recall— from our own snapshots—what we did in past days."

There, now, is an idea for all of us. In every family, things happen each day that we would like to remember. We buy new furniture, plant gardens, build a trellis for roses, put new screens on the back porch, take vacation trips. Children are born, grow up, change year by year. We change, too. And a true day-by-day picture-history of all our everyday activities, as well as activities not-so-everyday, would greatly enrich our memories in later years.

Let's make a mental note—make

Each family picture-book becomes more treasured as the years roll by.

It is a household ritual, and abide by it. "A picture a day keeps the family history up to date. And a complete picture-book each year keeps it permanently."

John van Gulder.

Call for Workers Is Reported Here

Employment Office Here Has Openings for Qualified Persons

The U. S. Employment Service district office at Hope reports an increasing number of calls for workers, both professional and domestic, and right now has several attractive positions open for competent persons.

The primary purpose of the Employment Service is to bring employer and worker together for the benefit of both—to find for the employer the most competent person available to fill the position he may have open, and to put the applicant in touch with the job where his qualifications will fit best.

Calls from employers include requests for qualified stenographers, salesmen, saleswomen, mechanics, laborers (both agricultural and industrial), cooks, maids, nurses, machine operators and chauffeurs. To fill these positions the Employment Service invites applicants of the highest type, persons with best qualifications in the fields of their experience.

For local openings at this time the Employment Service needs more qualified clerical workers and stenographers in the professional field, and more capable cooks, maids, and nurses in domestic jobs. This is a public service and is entirely free to both employers and applicants. The Hope office is located at corner of Main and Division streets, over Jack's newsstand, telephone 322.

Logan Bailey Is Talbot's Manager

Hope Man Selected to Manage New Department Store Here

Logan Bailey, well-known Hope young man, has been named manager of Talbot's, Hope's newest department store, West Second street.

Mr. Bailey was a sales clerk at the Geo. W. Robison store about 12 years, and for the past two years has been connected with Hawks & Buck company as a traveling representative.

Jeff Lee Talley has been employed as buyer of the ladies department of the new Talbot store. She formerly was associated with the Geo. W. Robison store.

They left Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Talbot and Mrs. Gleason for Dallas to purchase new fall merchandise for the local store.

Work will begin Wednesday of this week in remodeling the interior and exterior of the Talbot store, the building formerly occupied by Patterson's.

Surprising results were obtained in experiments conducted by the University of Saskatchewan on grass root research. A clump of prairie grass was found to develop 320 miles of roots in a mass of soil 7 feet deep and 4 feet square; 2 miles of roots were added by each day's growth.

Clipper Sighted

with 15 persons aboard July 28 while flying from Guam to Manila.

The Japanese navy had announced Sunday that the missing Hawaiian Clipper had been found 850 miles south of Cape Shimonoseki, Western Japan.

The steamer Canberra Maru radioed it had sighted the Clipper floating near Douglas reef. The message did not say whether the passengers were alive.

Douglas reef, also known as Parace Vela, is north of the route which the Clipper expected to follow when she took off from Guam for Manila July 28 with nine crew members and six passengers aboard.

All Believed Lost

J. T. Trippie, president of the Pan-American Airways system, said in New York Sunday that "we are regretfully forced to the assumption that the Hawaii Clipper, with all aboard was lost at sea early in the afternoon of July 28."

The Hawaii Clipper was the third of three four-engine, 3,500-horsepower flying boats designed by the Glenn H. Martin Company of Baltimore, Md., and commissioned for trans-Pacific service. One of the largest transport aircraft in service anywhere in the world, the Clipper had a gross weight of 52,000 pounds, a length of 90 feet and wing span of 130 feet.

Both Make Statement
LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Announcement by the senate campaign expenditures committee that no report would be made on its investigation into the Arkansas primary campaign prior to Tuesday's election, brought these statements from the two candidates involved in the investigation controversy.

Senator Hattie W. Caraway: "I imagine they are broadening the investigation to include all candidates." Representative McClellan: "Continuation of the investigation is significant."

McClellan had complained to the committee that federal employees had been unduly active in behalf of Senator Caraway.

The woman senator made her comment from Newport where she had an early afternoon speaking engagement. Her headquarters in Little Rock said it had no statement.

Later, McClellan issued a formal statement asserting that the committee's action "clearly indicates that investigators have gained sufficient information to require several days more work before a full report can be made."

The coming of investigators to Arkansas, however, has already had salutary effect. It has caused federal officers in the Caraway headquarters

"The people of Arkansas know the charges made are true and they stand undented," the Congressman concluded.

Barkley Defeats

night, as required by Kentucky law, returns from 88 of the 120 counties were complete. Counting was to resume Monday. Political observers predicted the total would approximate 500,000.

Although Chandler, who said he was a "friend" of the president, had not admitted defeat, the Cincinnati Enquirer, who supported the governor, conceded victory to Barkley. The Louisville Courier-Journal, which backed the senator, said he was re-nominated.

Barkley led in seven of the nine congressional districts, including his own, the First, and Chandler's, the sixth. The governor won the Fifth district (northern Kentucky) by 2,118, and was leading in the Fourth (Central Kentucky), by 1,982.

Barkley piled up his greatest lead in the First and Second districts (western Kentucky) and in the Seventh, coal mining area in eastern Kentucky. In the Ninth, another coal mining center, Barkley had a majority of less than 100. Chandler carried Harlan county in that district, 3,814 to 2,211.

In metropolitan Jefferson county (Louisville), where counting always is slow, Barkley got off to a 5,947-1,698 lead on returns from 68 of the 621 precincts.

On the basis of the present returns, Barkley will be opposed next November by John P. Haswell, who apparently had won the Republican nomination. Haswell, Hardinsburg attorney, was leading Andrew C. Ritchie, closest of his four rivals, by 6,859 votes on reports from 1,272 precincts.

"Printing That Makes an Impression"

Another Untrue Statement Exposed

My opponent Dick Huie has been going all over the District making long and loud speeches in an effort to convince the voters of this District he is for law enforcement. He and his Father, have scattered literature all over the District (at this late hour) in an effort to mislead the voters and to reflect on me.

CAN A MAN STAND FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT, AND AT THE SAME TIME ENDORSE OR COUNTENANCE THE TACTICS THAT ARE BEING USED BY MY OPPONENT?

In Sunday's edition of the Texarkana Gazette Dick Huie had published the following article:

"What Do Arkadelphia Lawyers Think of This Prosecuting Attorneys Race?"

"Read What They Say:

We, of the Arkadelphia Bar, hereby endorse the candidacy of Dick Huie for the office of Prosecuting Attorney. He is an upright and capable lawyer and will, if elected, serve with credit to the District, and honor to the Bar."

"Signed—
D. H. Crawford
J. E. Still
Dougald McMillan, Jr.
J. H. McMillan
D. W. McMillan
Joseph Callaway
D. F. McElhanan
R. W. Huie."

I have in my possession letters from attorneys whose names are signed to said article refuting said statement, which letters are as follows:

"I have had called to my attention an advertisement published in Sunday's Texarkana Gazette by Dick Huie. There is contained therein a letter of endorsement of his candidacy purporting to bear my signature. I can not recall ever having signed any such paper. If I did sign it, I was not informed as to its containing any such endorsement. I am not taking any active part in this campaign."

"Signed—J. E. Still, City Attorney, Arkadelphia."

"This is to state that several weeks ago Dick Huie, candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, brought a statement to my office and asked me to sign it. I do not recall that there was anything in said statement endorsing his candidacy. If there was any such statement contained therein, I certainly overlooked it, because otherwise I would not have signed it, because it is strictly against my policy."

"Signed—Dougald McMillan, Jr., Attorney, Arkadelphia."

"This is to state that I do not prefer to express a public preference for either of the two candidates for Prosecuting Attorney. They are both friends of mine, and I am, therefore, not taking any active part in the campaign."

"Signed—J. H. McMillan, Attorney, Arkadelphia."

Last Saturday night, Bob Huie, Father of my opponent, made the statement over the radio that: "Every lawyer in Arkadelphia, but one is supporting Dick Huie."

From the day I announced as Prosecuting Attorney, I have endeavored to discuss with the voters of the District duties of the office of Prosecuting Attorney, and my qualifications to discharge those duties.

I ask my opponent how he can reconcile that statement with the letters above quoted?

Reports from the five counties in the District indicate that I will win by an overwhelming majority. My opponent sees "The hand writing on the wall." In his desperation he is using every method known to politicians in an effort to mislead the people; BUT IT CAN'T BE DONE.

I appreciate the loyal support of my friends; and as a final message I ask you to keep up the good work until the last vote is cast, and victory is assured.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Hunting for Gold In the Andes

DOUBTLESS the Indians of Ecuador panned for gold in the richer streams of the Andes long before Pizarro came to conquer. Gold was not then used commercially, but for adornment, and the Incas often directed large bodies of laborers to mine under state orders.

The Zaruma mines were first visited by the Spaniards in 1549, when Captain Merendillo ascended the Tumbes river. That same year the towns of Zaruma and Zamora were founded. In 1541 other gold mines had been discovered on the Chichipe river. Later a gold rush was started on the Pante and Upa-no rivers. But in 1599 the Indians rebelled and destroyed these centers. Since these mines have been restored to active production. Today gold mining is still not a major industry in Ecuador, but the nation is known to be rich in undeveloped minerals. Oil is also assuming increasing importance. Foreign interests are taking new appraisal of the mining resources. Some predict a resurgence of activity. It is believed that the great deposits of copper, lead, coal, silver, gold and minerals generally found in the Andean chain are also buried in Ecuador. Shown here on a current Ecuadorian stamp is a placer miner.

Robison and Cafe Teams Play Again

Contested Game Will Probably Be Played This Week

The Hope Softball Commission Monday handed down a decision ordering the Southern Cafe and Geo. W. Robison softball teams to replay their game of last Friday night, which Robison won.

The game was protested by Luther Reynerson, manager of the cafe team, on the grounds that Frankie Barr was ineligible to play with the Robison team because five days had not elapsed since Barr obtained his release from the Moore-Hawthorne team.

In ordering the game replayed, the Softball Commissioners expressed belief that the incident resulted in a misunderstanding over Barr's eligibility status—and not a deliberate act in violating the rules.

In bringing the protest against the Robison team, Luther Reynerson of the cafe team, expressed willingness to replay the game before the commissioner's decision was announced.

Just when the game will be replayed, will be up to the managers of the two teams, however, it is hoped that the contest will be played this week in order that all teams will be up with the present schedule. The Star gave the Robison team credit for victory in the won and lost column, pending the decision of the Softball Commissioners. The correct standing and percentage of all teams appear in the won and lost column today.

The Softball Commissioners warned other teams to abide strictly by the rules and not take any chances of playing ineligible men. Had the commissioner found that the Robison manager deliberately played Barr in violation of the rules, the decision might have been severe.

The Robison-Southern Cafe game will be announced in The Star as quickly as the managers get together and set a date. It should prove a "gate-puller."

It Was Just a Shoebox But Contained $900

MUNCIE, Ind.—(AP)—Arthur Shuttleworth, general contractor, noticed a shoe box lying in the gutter but did not give it second thought as he stood watching traffic go by.

A stranger drove up, say the box, picked it up and exclaimed, "Boy, I'm sure glad to get this back. I've been searching for it the last half hour."

The man opened the box and pulled out more than $900 in currency.

Livestock valued at nearly $120,000 is exhibited each year at the New York State Fair by 4-H Club members.

Greenberg Ahead of Ruth's Record

Hank Can Ease September Strain by August Home Run Spurge

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

August may well be the pivotal month for Hank Greenberg in his pursuit of Babe Ruth's eleven-year-old record of 60 home runs.

"Wait until he reaches that September stretch," cry those who doubt Hank's ability to surpass the Ruthian record. They recall the torrid finishing drive Ruth maintained in that final hot month of 1927, when he potted out 17 homers.

But if Hank's Pankus continues in August the pace he set in July—when he walloped 15—he won't have to do much worrying about September. As he moved into August, Hank had 37. Another 15 for August (and it's not beyond him) and Greenberg would strike that September stretch with 53 4-base clouts.

He'd be almost a cinch then to lam-bust the eight more necessary to establish a new mark.

Many others have tried in vain to equal Babe's tremendous total. Jimmy Fox came closest. He banged out 58 in 1932.

Hank Wilson of the Cubs hit 56 in 1930.

Lou Gehrig hit 49 and Joe DiMaggio 46.

But none was in as good a strategical spot to better Ruth's figure as is the big Detroit first baseman.

On August 1, Greenberg was 20 games in front of Ruth's pace. Greenberg hit his 37th home run in his 92nd game. Ruth didn't get No. 37 until his 113th game on August 16.

Here's the way Ruth hit his by month's, with Greenberg's marks through July:

Month	Ruth	Greenberg
April	4	3
May	12	9
June	9	10
July	9	15
August	9	7
September	17	7

Both in 1920 and 1921 Ruth turned into August with more homers than he had in 1927, when he set his record. In 1920, Ruth had 37 on August 1, but got only 7 for August and 10 for September for a 54 total. The next year he had 38 on August 1, both 10 in August and 11 in September for a 59 total.

But Hank's big advantage is that his have been potted in a fewer number of games than Ruth's. Starting August he still has 61 games in which to add homers. However, some of these may not be played.

Greenberg also has the advantage of not being with a pennant-contending team. He can concentrate on hitting those homers.

The gasoline tax was first adopted by Oregon in 1919, and was taken up by all states during the next 10 years.

Fight Program to Be Given Tuesday

Effort Being Made to Rematch Milton Powell and Norman Cates

Milt Powell, hard hitting Patmos light heavyweight has been signed for special election day fight program.

Powell signed a last round rally to take the decision from Norman Cates on last Friday night's card. Cates immediately asked for a return bout and if possible this return fight will be scheduled for Tuesday night.

Mutt Powell, twin brother of the Patmos slugger, meets Chas. Gault of the CCC camp in the three round semi-final.

Mutt has fought at the arena twice this season, winning on a decision from Chas. Baker and fighting a draw with Wilton Gentry last Friday in the Jack Anderson of Spring Hill, makes his initial appearance at the arena Tuesday night in the three round feature preliminary.

Anderson is reported to be a pretty good fighter, having fought a draw with Milt Powell last year at a near Patmos. His opponent will be Lloyd Howell of the CCC camp.

In addition to the above feature fights another big battle royal and two preliminary bouts will conclude the card.

Tickets go on sale at 8 p. m. First fight starts promptly at 8:30.

Grimes and Ruth Both Chased Out

Ruth Given the "Heav-O" in First Games, Grimes Out in Second

BROOKLYN, (AP)—For the first time since he became coach of the Dodgers, Babe Ruth was ejected from a ball game Sunday.

Umpire Beans Reardon gave Babe the "heav-on" in the fourth inning of the first game of the double-header with Cincinnati, when Ruth protested a decision on Buddy Hassett. Trapped between bases, Hassett was ruled out when Reardon held him off the base path.

For several minutes, fans chanted "We want Ruth."

Brooklyn's Manager, Burleigh Grimes was tossed out during the second game.

Let's Have A Fair Election

We are publishing Act 123-1935—"The Fair Election Law" so that every voter may know the election requirements set up by our Legislature. Read these laws and do your part to HELP HEMPSTEAD COUNTY HAVE A FAIR HONEST ELECTION!

AN ACT TO PREVENT ILLEGAL OR IMPROPER VOTING IN ANY GENERAL OR SPECIAL ELECTION IN THE STATE OF ARKANSAS AND TO SUPPLEMENT THE PROVISIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION IN RELATION TO THE PRIMARY ELECTIONS AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE PROPER ASSESSMENT AND PAYMENT OF THE TAXES IN THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS:

SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to cast a vote in any general or special election hereafter held in the State of Arkansas, whether the same be a legal election now or hereafter provided by law or whether the same be a general or a special primary election held under the auspices of any political party in the State of Arkansas, unless the said person so casting a vote shall be a qualified elector as defined by the Constitution of Arkansas, Amendment No. 6 thereof, and Section 3772 of Crawford & Moses' Digest of the Statutes of Arkansas.

SECTION 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to cast a ballot in any election so held as set forth in Section 1 of this Act, unless the said person shall have previously assessed and paid a poll tax as now provided by law and which said assessment and payment of poll tax shall have been made by the person so casting a vote in person or by some person authorized by such person to so assess and pay such poll tax as aforesaid; provided, that in the event that such assessment is made and poll tax paid by an agent, the said agent must exhibit to the assessing officer or collecting officer, authority in writing from the person or persons so desiring an assessment to be made or the poll tax paid and it shall be the duty of the said assessing or collecting officer, to file in his said office the said such written authority from the person or persons authorizing such assessment to be made or their poll tax paid, and to keep the same on file in his or her office for a period of two years and the same shall be opened at all times to the inspection of any interested person or persons.

SECTION 3. It shall be unlawful for any collecting officer in this State at any time after the personal tax records have been delivered to him by the County Clerk for the purpose of collecting the personal taxes, to add to the said Tax Books the name of any person whose taxes have not been previously assessed as now provided by law, and shall further be unlawful for any such collecting officer to issue a poll tax receipt to any such person whose name does not appear on the Tax Books in the manner now provided by law.

SECTION 4. It is hereby made the duty of all Collecting officers in this State, or their deputies, to issue Poll Tax Receipts in regular order as they appear in the books and upon the forms as issued by the State Auditor's Office as now provided by law; and it is also made the duty of all collecting officers in this State to cease issuing poll taxes after midnight of the 15th of June of each year, provided the collector shall deliver to the County Clerk the certified list of Poll Tax payers within fifteen days from June, the 15th of each year, and it is hereby made unlawful for any collecting officer to date such poll tax receipt, other than the correct date the same has in fact been issued; provided nothing in this section shall prohibit collecting officers from issuing poll tax receipts after June 15th of any year and in such cases the said Collecting Officer shall stamp across the face of any such poll tax the following: "This poll tax issued after June 15th." When any such poll tax is so issued and stamped as aforesaid, the same will not entitle the holder of the same to vote in any general or special election held thereafter in the year the said poll tax has been issued, and the names of any persons holding such poll tax receipts shall not be included in the list of persons paying poll taxes prior to said June 15th of any year.

All poll tax receipts issued by the collector shall be made out and signed with pen and ink. No Poll Tax Receipts shall be delivered to any person later than five days after the date of the issuance thereof and the date written on the Poll Tax receipt shall be the date of issuance. It shall be unlawful for any person to be found in possession of any Poll Tax receipt other than his own after five days after the date of issuance thereof. It shall be unlawful for any person to deliver to another a Poll Tax receipt and unlawful for any person to receive a Poll Tax receipt after five days after the date of issuance thereof. No candidate for office shall purchase or other directly or indirectly any Poll Tax receipt except for himself or for his wife, parents and children. The violation of any of the provisions or requirements of this section shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200 and the violation shall render the person so violating the same ineligible to hold any office in this State.

SECTION 5. It is hereby declared unlawful for any candidate for office to assess the poll tax of any person, without written authority as herein provided in Section 2 of this Act; and should it appear in any election contest that any candidate for office without such authority has assessed the poll tax of any person or persons, such fact when proven will constitute evidence sufficient to deprive such person from holding any office in this State for a period of four years, whether the said candidate shall have been elected by the Court or Judge trying any election contest to so find whether or not such fact is proven, and the evidence upon such fact may be reviewed by any appellate court to which the cause may be appealed and the finding of the trial court upon this fact of assessing or paying poll taxes will not be binding upon such appellate court.

SECTION 6. Hereafter, when any election contest has been filed by any candidate in any legalized primary election under Section 3772 and 3773 of Crawford & Moses' Digest of the Statutes of Arkansas, it is hereby declared that the only inquiry which can be made into the qualifications of the supporting affidavits mentioned in Section 3772 of said Digest must be confined to the question as to whether or not the said persons are qualified electors and members of the parties holding said primary election under the rules prescribed by said party so holding the election and have in fact made the affidavit provided by the said Section 3772. Qualified Elector is hereby construed to mean any person who is entitled to vote in said election or has assessed and paid a poll tax as required by law.

SECTION 7. In the event that there are more election contests brought under said Section 3772 of Crawford & Moses' Digest than the Circuit Judge can dispose of prior to ten days before held, then either of the parties to said contest may so report the same to the Circuit Judge in writing or otherwise, who shall have full and complete authority to appoint an attorney with the qualifications of Circuit Judges to hear any such contest and render a final judgment in the same; and the judgment so rendered by the attorney so appointed shall be binding with full force and effect as if the regular Circuit Judge had heard the case; and the appointment of such attorney, the said Circuit Judge will not be confined in the selection of such attorney to the Circuit Judge pending a legal ballot shall be considered as legal ballot unless such persons shall apply to the County Clerk in person or by letter or shall appear in person before such County Clerk and vote such absentee ballot in the manner now provided by law. And it is hereby made the duty of the County Clerks in this state to keep on file in his office all correspondence in connection with any and all persons voting such absentee ballots, and upon the convening of the County Central Committee, and not only the absentee ballots shall be presented to the said committee but all correspondence in connection with such absentee ballots which have been prepared and voted in the manner now provided by law, shall be deemed a legal ballot. Any person casting an illegal absentee ballot or attempting to so cast such a ballot, and any County Clerk violating the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction of such offense shall be fined in any sum of not less than $100 nor more than $200.

SECTION 8. It is hereby declared to be the duty of all County Clerks in this State to preserve the returns of all legalized elections held in this State as is now provided by law. Whenever any returns provided by any election shall be delivered to the County Clerks by the County Central Committee of any political party, the same shall be locked and sealed as now provided by law and deposited in the custody of the said County Clerks, and the same shall be preserved in their integrity by the said County Clerks; either in some suitable and safe place or vault in any courthouse of this State, or in case there is no suitable place or vault in the courthouse, the said County Clerks shall select some safe and secure place to so preserve said returns.

SECTION 9. In all elections in Arkansas duplicate ballot boxes shall be used. The duplicate ballot of each voter, after being numbered with the same number placed on the original ballot, shall be deposited in a duplicate ballot box which shall be sealed with a standard make of numbered seal by the person who delivers the election supplies to the election officers. A record shall be made of the number upon each seal showing to which precinct the box shall be delivered. Said record shall be signed by the person sealing the ballot boxes and verified by him and filed with the County Clerk as a permanent record. The duplicate ballot boxes shall in no event be opened unless by order of a court of competent jurisdiction made in an election contest or by a grand jury in connection with its inquisitorial duties or by directed by a prosecuting attorney in the prosecution of a person for violation of any of the election laws. Said duplicate boxes shall be delivered to the County Treasurer who shall safely keep said ballot boxes under the same penalties prescribed herein for failure of the County Clerk to safely keep the returns received by him. It shall be unlawful for any person to open or permit to be opened any of the said duplicate ballot boxes except as above mentioned and any person so any of said duplicate ballot boxes shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $200. It shall be the duty of all party officials whose duty it is now to furnish ballots to the Judges and Clerks, to furnish in the manner now provided by law, a sufficient number of ballots printed in duplicate. These ballots shall be in one piece, but so printed and perforated that by folding over and using carbon paper, an exact duplicate may be made. Said party officials shall provide sufficient carbon paper, properly cut for said use.

All persons voting shall prepare duplicate ballots making a true and exact copy, except that their names shall be affixed on the duplicate ballots, but not on the original ballots.

The Judges and clerks shall use a register, or list of voters, as now provided by law, but no number on said register, shall be given to any voter, nor shall any number appear on the original ballot, by which it may be possible to identify the voter, and all laws or parts of laws now requiring such numbers in elections, are hereby repealed.

SECTION 17. The County Clerk of each county shall receive the election returns as now provided by law and keep the same as now provided by law and any failure of said County Clerk to do so shall be a felony for which said clerk, upon the conviction of such officer, may be imprisoned in the state penitentiary, not exceeding one year, and removed from his office.

SECTION 18. The counting of all ballots at a primary election shall begin at the closing of the polls and shall be continuous until completed. During the counting of the ballots a candidate or any representative of a candidate, designated by such representative in writing as such representative may be present at the counting of the ballots.

SECTION 19. The County Central Committee shall appoint three judges and two clerks, each from different townships, to count the absentee ballots and said absentee ballots shall be counted immediately after the hour for the closing of the polls and the results of such absentee ballots shall be immediately announced and a duplicate result of the vote shall be posted on the courthouse door immediately after the said absentee ballots are counted. The results of said absentee ballots shall be reported as the votes in the various precincts are required to be reported.

SECTION 20. It shall be unlawful for any person to make any threat or attempt to intimidate any elector or his family, his business or his profession, and it shall also be unlawful to attempt to prevent any qualified elector from voting at any primary election. It shall be unlawful to print or distribute any ballots, outside of those ballots ordered for use in the election, for the purpose of instructing voters how to vote. It shall be unlawful for any person to attend any voting place on election day and hand out, or give away, any campaign cards, placards, or other articles for the purpose of influencing the electors to vote for any candidate. Any violation of any of the provisions of this section of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding $500.

SECTION 21. The election officer designated to deliver the election returns to the county clerk, or his deputy, shall make said delivery immediately after the ballots have been counted and the returns prepared. The returns and ballots shall be placed in the ballot box and the ballot box shall be sealed with a numbered metal seal, provided as part of the election supplies, number of which is noted on poll book; and election officer shall take a receipt from County Clerk with number on seals of both ballot boxes noted therein. He shall allow no person to handle or examine said returns until they are delivered to the county clerk or his deputy, and in case he should permit any other person to handle or examine said returns he and the person handling or examining said returns shall be guilty of a felony and punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for not more than one year and by fine of $500.

SECTION 22. It shall be unlawful for any other person than the county clerk or his deputy to have possession of the returns of any primary election after said returns have been delivered to the county clerk or his deputy, for any person to break into or attempt to break into the vault where said returns are kept by the county clerk. A violation of any of the provisions of this section shall be a felony and be punished by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for not more than one year and by a fine of $500.

SECTION 23. Off-Season Work for Farmer, Plan

U. S. Considering Permanent Program of Between-Season Jobs

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Inauguration of a permanent program of between-season employment for needy farmers was announced today by Harry L. Hopkins, Work Progress administrator, as the first step of President Roosevelt's "frontal attack" on the South's inequality of inequality of income.

Hopkins, in a broadcast address said he came to talk with state and regional administrators of 11 Southern states in which diets for thousands consists of "grits, greens and gravy." He said he discussed with the administrators "what measures the WPA can take to further the president's purposes" after previously giving them authority "to add 200,000 persons to the WPA rolls pending the time when labor would be needed for picking cotton."

"We intend to close out this employment in picking time, and to open it up again when the harvest is over," Hopkins said.

He asserted there were thousands of Southerners in rural areas not earning an adequate income from agriculture.

"I believe, therefore, as a matter of permanent policy," he said, "that every far family whose income is inadequate should be given employment a few months each year to supplement his agricultural income," Hopkins said. He added that while he intended to see the jobs went to the needy, he proposed to modify the procedure of certification for work "and to substitute in its place an employment system which will remove the offensive stigma of relief from these people."

complete investigation of applications, appraisal and selection of land and similar details in time for the borrowers to occupy their new farms and make a crop in 1939.

Encourage Applications.

Mr. Wade said it will be the policy of the FSA to encourage all interested tenants, sharecroppers, farm laborers and former owners who are eligible to apply for loans.

"While we realize that the limitation of funds will permit us to make loans to only a few of those who apply, we are nevertheless anxious for every eligible farmer in the county to have a chance to make application and be considered by the county advisory committee for a loan."

To be eligible a person must be a bona fide farmer who is unable to secure sufficient credit at reasonable terms from any other source to acquire a farm. The committee, made up of local farmers, will carefully study each application. The past record of the applicant as a farmer and citizen will be weighed carefully in making the final selections.

Negro Farmers Eligible.

Supervisor Wade said the rumor has spread in some communities that negro tenants are not eligible for tenant purchase loans. He emphatically denied this rumor, contending that the Farm Security Administration, because of the large number of negro tenants in Arkansas, is anxious to have applications from worthy negro farmers who are sincerely interested in achieving farm ownership.

"Negro farmers are fully eligible for Bankhead-Jones loans and their applications will be given full and sympathetic consideration by the committee," Mr. Wade said.

Persons living in counties that participated in the program last year who filed application earlier will not be required to submit a second application, Mr. Wade said. Old applications that have been held over from the previous program because of lack of funds will be automatically reconsidered by county committees in selecting borrowers in the new program.

Application blanks are available at the office of the Farm Security Administration which is located in Hope, Arkansas, Elks Building.

Tenant purchase loans are to be made in the county this year to about 2 tenants to enable them to purchase their own family-size farms and make willed him a half-interest in her property. Both of these facts belonged under the general classification of Phenomena.

To begin with, though he had not seen his Aunt Martha since he was seven years old and the class est performer of his generation on the sling-shot, Kinks remembered her as the sort of person who does not die.

The second part of the double phenomenon was even more baffling. For 19 years Kinks had not seen Mrs. Martha Preston and had seldom heard her mentioned. He knew the reason for that. Mrs. Preston had never approved of Sylvester Kinkaid Parker, Kinks' late father. Sylvester Parker had been a gay soul with a penchant for fast motor cars and an unenviable ability to get rid of money. During the lifetime of Kinks' mother, Mrs. Preston had tolerated Sylvester Parker as an unavoidable evil. But when Mrs. Parker died in Kinks' early adolescence, the breach became complete. And after Sylvester had taken careless leave of this world two years ago, while exercising his penchant for fast motoring on a wet Long Island road, it had never occurred to Kinks to look up his aunt. Wherefore the fact that she had mentioned him in her will seemed little short of a miracle.

MIRACLE was right, thought Kinks. He was remembering that he had been out of a job for over seven months. With fine irony, the securities house for which he'd worked since leaving college had quietly folded a week before Christmas. Since then Kinks had established an intimate acquaintance with the sidewalks of New York.

Heir to an estate? Visions of grandeur swept into Kinks' mind. And since he knew nothing of his Aunt Martha's affairs, he was able to entertain them royally.

And then he remembered something very vital. Whatever it was, palace or hotel, he had only a half interest in it.

Who the devil, thought Kinks, his mind a-whirl, was the owner of the other half?

The first shock of the letter was over. And now curiosity overcame Kinks. He bounded suddenly out of the chair and all the way to the bedroom of the Yale Club where his hat languished.

Two hours later Mr. Kinks Parker impinged himself upon the village of Winstock, Connecticut.

Winstock, Connecticut, appeared to have been asleep since the landing of the Pilgrims. It basked in drowsy amiability under the sun of the noontide. There was a cluster of stores, a cluster of houses, a tired-looking movie theater and a filling station. Even as he walked the short distance from the train to the main street, Kinks sighted his goal. A faded sign just over the drugstore read:

Kenworthy & Kenworthy
Attorneys-at-Law

Kinks crossed the main street arousing only a passing interest from a group of local butternuts on the corner. Perceiving a door which obviously led to Kenworthy & Kenworthy he entered the building and went up a flight of stairs. At the head of them he found the attorneys' offices. The door was locked.

He knocked, discreetly at first, then with vigor. Nothing happened. He took off his hat, scratched his head, and knocked again. Still no one answered. Baffled, Kinks returned to the street.

A nondescript gentleman was leaning against the drugstore occasionally anointing the curb with tobacco juice.

"Can you tell me," Kinks inquired, "where I can find Mr. Caleb Kenworthy? His office seems to be closed."

"Caleb Kenworthy," he said, "always goes home for a bite to eat 'bout this time."

"Do you know when he'll be back?" Kinks asked.

The nondescript individual cogitated profoundly.

"'Bout three o'clock, I spect," he decided finally. Caleb always lays down for a nap after his dinner."

Kinks had a sudden brainwave. "How do you get to Mrs. Martha Preston's place?" he asked the tobacco-chewing oracle.

THE directions were simple. Kinks walked half a mile out of the village on the main highway. Presently a dirt road, winding along a meandering little Connecticut river, appeared on his left. He followed it for another half mile. And suddenly coming around a bend, he found himself at journey's end.

It was a low rambling house, white with green trim, set back perhaps two hundred feet from the road and guarded by giant oaks. Redolent roses had begun to climb the Colonial pillars of the porch. The lawn in front was dotted with shrubbery. And Kinks caught a glimpse of a barn behind, likewise white and green-trimmed, and a strip of sloping ground that led down to the river. His heart skipped a beat. This place was neither palace nor hovel. He went slowly up the drive and rang the bell. A shrill reverberation echoed through the house. Kinks waited a good three minutes. No one answered the bell.

"I guess bells don't mean anything in Winstock, Connecticut," he muttered. "Well, we'll try the back."

The kitchen door was likewise locked. So were the windows that opened on the kitchen porch. Kinks beat upon doors and windows. The place was as deserted as a grave. Suddenly he grew annoyed.

"Damn it," he said, "I'll see the inside of this place or know the reason why. I own half of it, don't I?"

A sizable stone lurked near the porch steps. Taking careful aim, Kinks smashed a window just above the inside catch. Then he reached gingerly through, released the catch and raised the window.

He had one foot in the kitchen and was about to place the other beside it when there came a surprised cry from the back lawn. Kinks' head jerked up.

On the lawn, a market-basket hanging from her arm and an outraged expression on her face, stood the prettiest girl that Kinks Parker had ever seen.

Booker, Native Son

Joe Booker, native son of Washington, was greeted by a loud burst of applause as he stepped to the speaker's platform in behalf of his brother Lester who is running for state land

Closing the day's meeting were the two candidates for prosecuting attorney. Lyle Brown took the first turn and was followed by Dick Hule.

To My Friends

of Hempstead and Surrounding Counties

I Want to Introduce John L. McClellen
Candidate for the United States Senate:

I have known John L. McClellen for 20 years and I am going to vote for him for United States Senator Tuesday.

I will appreciate your help in electing him. He is courageous and upright, as I know by personal acquaintance with him, and he has the background and qualifications that you expect of a United States Senator.

He was born on an Arkansas farm, but at 17 was admitted to the bar—the youngest lawyer in America.

He served a year and a half in the World war, and is a member of the American Legion. He organized the Legion post at Sheridan, and served twice as commander of his home post at Malvern.

Returning from the war he was elected City Attorney at Malvern at the age of 24, holding that office six years.

At the age of 30 he was elected Prosecuting Attorney, serving two terms.

In 1934, at the age of 38, he was elected to Congress from the Sixth district, had no opposition for a second term in 1936—and today, at the age of 42, he is running for the United States Senate.

I have known this man for 20 years. He is endorsed by the people of his home town and his home district. He is endorsed by union labor—and by every man who has known him in his rise to high public office.

This letter was not written for Money—I run a sawmill for a living.

Yours truly,
